METHODOLOGY: Quantitative
Process Measurement
The Jackson County Safe Family Coalition is a multi-disciplinary group of public and private agencies committed to changing the way member systems work with families experiencing the co-occurrence of domestic violence and child abuse. Success is measured not only in the system change that occurs, but also in the collaborative processes developed.

OVERVIEW: The Resource Development Institute (RDI), under contract with the Health Care Foundation of Greater Kansas City evaluates components of the Safe Family Coalition (SFC) including qualitative and quantitative data that presents evaluation results of local system change, planning, professional development, and practice activities across and within the participating primary systems.
